Read that statement in the broadest count from a storekeeper's standpoint. duced to the lowest number. It was a way. The midwinter months used to be of little ac-Helpers had little or nothing to do, and forces were remoney-losing time. That is changed, and now February is a money-making month for every supplier of personal or household wants, and there is no cessation in the hum of business at Large merchandise movements are planned ahead for February—the time when, as in August, we can handle additional business at least expense. Such savings are entirely for your sharing. So are the savings that come through prices reduced to aid readjustments of stocks. Mill-men and importers are glad of our help. We, too, have large lots of goods that should be quickly turned to cash. Look to your savings. They are of as much account as your earnings.

TIRE STOCK OF MACKINTOSHES.
